

Corey D. Allan, Ph.D.
Licensed Marriage and Family Therapist
Licensed Professional Counselor

Couples Therapy Intensive

This form is to be read and signed in addition to the Information Packet if you intend to participate in the Intensive Therapy option. While this option may not be suitable for every client, this format is a powerful way to develop new (more accurate) ways of understanding yourself and your situation -- and put them into action. It helps couples and families become better differentiated and change entrenched ways of relating. This approach encourages partners and family members to develop their "self" while facilitating emotional connection. Even when treatment focuses on a marital issue for a couple, the benefits often ripple through the entire family (children and grandparents) and business life as well.

Intensive therapy is typically held mornings or afternoons for three hours each day on three consecutive days, with a possible follow up session a few weeks later. The fee for the Intensive Therapy option is $1200 which is due after completion of the first day's session. After the first day's session the client and the therapist have the option to discontinue the intensive option, in this case a double or triple session fee will be charged. If the client and the therapist agree to continue with the intensive approach, full payment or payment arrangements are due.

If for some reason a client can not complete all three sessions, every reasonable attempt will be made to reschedule the session(s). If the client chooses to discontinue therapy in the middle of the intensive approach, no refunds will be offered for the session(s) missed. If the therapist for any reason must cancel or can not complete all three sessions, sessions will be rescheduled or a portion of the fee will be refunded.

By signing below, you are agreeing to these conditions and fees.

Client's Signature

Client's Signature

Counselor's Signature

Date